600,000 CATTLE MUST BE KILLED

Needed to Complete Huge Dirigible Building in England for America

By WILLIAM L. MALLABAR. International News Service Staff Correspondence.

LONDON, April 20,-"It will take 600,000 cows or bullocks to merely supply the inner tining of the gas bag of the ship."

This was one of the many astonishing facts regarding the construction of the "R 38" given to a representative of the International News Service who visited the factory where the monster airship, purchased by the American government from the British, is being constructed. The trip through the monster facmander H. T. Dyer and Lieutenant Commander E. W. Colt, both of the destroyed the 5,600-ton Norwegian steamship Hallfried, which was berth ed at one of the piers of the terminal. Explosions occurred in 2,500 tons of nitrate in the vessel's hold and two piers nearest the ship were damaged. A few firemen were overcome and sevral terminal employes were removed to hospitals slightly inured.

A fleet of tugs removed many ships from danger.

Mr. Chamberlain, referring to the gigantic sacrifices endured throughout the war, described the nation's position as "one of unexampled and unequalited strength." He announced there would be no more borrowing to balance revenue and expenditures, and estimated new tax proposals would enable the redemption of a great deal of the debt this year and 300,000,000 pounds from danger.

The new taxation proposal included increases in postal and telegraph.
